

LOST NAHUM KNIGHT LINE FOUND

Since the 2014 reunion, Darrell Knight has heard from two descendants of Nahum. Their data tells a great deal about the migrations of Nahum's family:

- A man by the preferred name of KC Norseth lives with his wife Judy in Kaysville, Utah. Judy while searching the family history, found Nahum in her husband's ancestry. This was the first indication that we had information of what happened to Nahum. KC has ancestry reaching back to Denton, Texas. He was raised in the Church, and served a mission. He and Judy are working on completing the temple ordinances for Nahum's line to them. KC descends through Joseph, the son of Nahum and Thankful.
- A woman, named Michelle Rhea lives in Santa Barbara, CA. She found her relationship to Nahum through her DNA tying into the Knight line with the DNA service of Ancestry.com. She writes, "I am a descendant from Mary, a daughter of Nahum Knight. She was born in Missouri around 1832. I would like to know more about the family, and I am happy to tell of Mary's descendants."
- The pedigree data from both of these new cousins and the census records of 1840, 1850, and 1860 form a migration path as follows: Nahum was born in New York, and most of his children were born in Colesville, New York also; but one was born in Missouri (Buchanan County) in the early 1830s. The grandchildren were born in Texas according to census records to 1860. That would indicate that Nahum would be about 64 years old then. We do not know when or where he died.
- Michelle was raised in Texas, and the ancestors of KC were from Texas. Thus, we now know more about the path Nahum and Thankful took after leaving the body of the family and Saints in Missouri.
